

K-12 Dual Enrollment Survey Insights

Enhancing Pathways to College Access

While participation in dual enrollment programs continues to grow, approval, registration, and enrollment processes can be varied, complicated, and time consuming.

To understand more about the K-12 perspective and improve the experience for students, high schools, and higher ed institutions, we surveyed 500 high school counselors and administrators about their dual enrollment processes and experiences with their higher ed partners.

Explore the key trends and insights they shared below.

Double-Digit Growth Expected to Continue

41%

of respondents expect 10%+ growth in participation this academic year.

34%

Of these, 34% expect 20%+ growth – solidifying these programs as a key pipeline to college access.

Collaboration Creates Added Complexity

68%

say their schools partner with two or more colleges.

18%

of those partner with five or more, compounding administrative tasks and requirements.

Manual Processes Drain Time

Managing enrollment manually is time consuming, with 39% of counselors and administrators spending over three hours weekly on administrative tasks.

Enrollment Challenges Cited Most Frequently

51%

STUDENT REGISTRATION & ENROLLMENT

44%

PROVIDING STUDENT DATA

42%

TRACKING APPROVALS

Student registration and enrollment, providing student data, and tracking approvals are the most frequently cited challenges, underscoring the need for more efficient processes between K-12 and higher ed partners.

Schools Want Solutions That Streamline Enrollment

76% of counselors and administrators are eager to adopt secure, digital solutions that include roster upload to simplify the dual enrollment process.

Dual enrollment is on the rise, emerging as a crucial pathway to college access and academic success for students – and Parchment is here to help.

Parchment equips schools with a fully digital solution that automates time-consuming workflows, enhances collaboration between K-12 and higher ed partners, and seamlessly integrates with existing systems.

Learn how Parchment Pathways Dual Enrollment can help you streamline dual enrollment processes for your K-12 partners, so they can spend more time focused on helping students succeed!